And it wasn't a bit less painful
When she tried to sing the new.

DUMDUM BULLETS

Expanding Kind First Made In Town of Same Name.

(New York Mail.)

The French accuse the Germans of using dumdum bullets in Alsace. They have made a collection of these missiles, and promise to enter formal complaint about them before The Hague tribunal, or before the representatives of the Powers of all the world.

Dumdum bullets have their name from a little town in India, near Calcutta, where the ammunition factory for the British Government in India is situated. For the benefit of Afghans, possible Indian mutineers, negroes and other barbarians, the British had a bullet manufactured here which is half covered with steel, but with a soft leaden nose; when discharged from a modern rifle of high power, this soft nose expands, or "mush-rooms," turning the bullet in the air into a horrible bulging object which tears through the flesh of a man, surely bleeding him to death.

The purpose of this bullet is to kill the man every time. The purpose of the ordinary humane bullet of modern warfare, which is wholly incased in steel or nickel, is merely to put the man out of the fight. It makes a small, clean wound. If it does not strike a vital part the bullet may go entirely through the man without wounding him seriously. But it shuts him out of the fight for the time being.

Our British friends in India considered that a humane bullet like that would be of little use to fight savages with and therefore, at Dumdum, they manufacture the soft-nosed, expanding horror. But the International Conference at The Hague in 1899 decided against the use of this bullet in war, and adopted a rule forbidding it.

WHAT TOMMY ADKINS EATS

Publication of British Soldiers' Menu Follows General French's Praise of the Commissary.

When General French's report of the first week's fighting of the British army in France was received it was noted that in mentioning the various branches of the service which had contributed to the success of the movement, he laid particular stress upon the wonderful work the commissary department had done. The early movements of the army were in the form of alternate stands and retreats, a fight all day and a retreat at night. Yet the commissary was able to keep up with and serve Tommy Atkins and keep his stomach full. And Tommy fought like a lion although he did not relish the continuous retrograde. Thus Lord Kitchener's promise at the beginning of hostilities has been carried out.

"Every man on the battle line will fight on a full stomach," he said and the publication of Tommy's menu shows plainly that England's war minister has made good his word. Every soldier is allowed a pound and a half of bacon and beef per day; a pound and a half of bread with cheese or jam and two ounces of tobacco.

FIFTY YEARS AGO IN CINCINNATI.

(Commercial Tribune.)

OCTOBER 3, 1864.

On Sunday last a lady and gentleman belonging to Sanford's Minstrel Troupe were married, but the match evidently proved not a happy one since the bride of two days eloped with another gentleman yesterday.

There were eight packet arrivals yesterday and nine departures. Business was good on the landing and all boat men report a heavy traffic in all directions.

The weather was cool and cloudy with rain during the afternoon and evening. The thermometer ranged from 49 to 60 deg. during the day.

Captain Thompson, local recruiting officer, established a new record during the past ten days of September when he enlisted 700 men, practically all of whom have gone to the front. One hundred and seventy-five men were drafted in the Seventh Ward yesterday, thus completing the quota to be furnished by that ward under the last call.

The men of Newport will hold a festival at Odd Fellows' Hall tomorrow night, the proceeds to be devoted to the purchase of a flag for the Loyal League.

Gold continues to decline, being quoted in New York yesterday at 180, with evidence that it will go lower to-day. Wheat was quoted on the Chicago market yesterday at $1.13, corn $1.21 and oats $1.60 and the entire list was very weak.

Grant's campaign war maps are now offered for sale by booksellers and are warranted "to give the observer a perfectly clear view of the war situation."

THE COCKTAIL.

(Philadelphia Evening Ledger.)
Who invented the cocktail? Some bartender? A bon vivant? Or was its discovery the result of a drunken frolic?

The cocktail was invented by Mrs. Elizabeth Planchon, widow of an Irish soldier who fell in the service of the American army during the Revolution. After her husband's death, Mrs. Planchon became an army sutler, following a troop of Virginia horse under General Burr. In the winter of 1776 she took up quarters with the troop in a place called Four Corners, on the road between Tarrytown and White Plains, N. Y., near the residence of John D. Rockefeller. There Mrs. Planchon set up a hotel which soon became the rendezvous of the "swells" of that day. One day the hostess surprised her guests by announcing a new drink—the cocktail—supposed to have been named after the blending of colors in the tail of a game cock.

THE CUB'S FAUX PAS.

(Philadelphia Evening Ledger.)
This may be a base libel on an honored profession, but it is told by the man who perpetrated the faux pas. He was a reporter for a Baltimore paper—or had been one for about an hour this being his first experience in newspaper work—when the city editor sent him out to see Cardinal Gibbons. The "cub" rushed down to the modest white house where the venerable prelate lives and rang the bell. A man servant opened the door.

"Is the Cardinal at home?" asked the reporter.

"No sir."

"Oh, Mrs. Gibbons will do," ejaculated the "cub."

A FISCAL COURT'S MISTAKE.

As a rule the Fiscal Courts in Kentucky have not been backward about voting funds for the employment of farm demonstration agents. An exception is noted in Hopkins county, where the Fiscal Court has refused to appropriate any amount whatever.

The Federal Government expends a large amount of money every year in paying the salaries of the farm agents, but it expects the counties to meet it half way in the matter of expense. In other words it will pay half the agent's salary provided the court will pay the other half. This is a reasonable proposition and one that has been accepted readily by a score or more counties in Kentucky.

Hopkins county employed a farm demonstration agent a year ago. The Fiscal Court, then as now, refused to give any assistance and the money was raised by private subscription, the Hopkins County Commercial Club leading in the campaign for funds. The Commercial Club and the farmers of the county will raise the money again this year, as they believe that the farm agent has more than earned his salary and that the work he has done should be continued.

The Fiscal Court is making a mistake in not giving assistance. There is nothing more necessary to the prosperity of Kentucky than agricultural development. The farm agents everywhere are proving their worth. They are giving the farmers help that can be had in no other way. Assuredly the public funds can be appropriated to no better purpose than in promoting crop production and inculcating system and economy in farm procedure. —Courier-Journal.

GENERAL NOGI'S PROPHECY.

(From The Boston Herald.)

It is interesting to recall what the distinguished military strategist General Nogi said at the time of the siege of Port Arthur, and note how accurately he located the field on which the future of Europe would be fought out and determined. His words were:

"I believe that the world will witness a great war, which will have all Europe for its battle ground, and will settle the Franco-German question and the Anglo-German rivalry. France and Germany will meet in this last decisive conflict on the Belgian plains, probably near Waterloo, the only spot which will permit of the evolution of the immense armies which will face each other. At the present time the French and German frontiers are too strongly fortified for either people to force its way through. I have little doubt as to the result of this war. France will beat Germany on land, and England will crush Germany at sea.

"This war will be the last in Europe for many a day, perhaps forever; the German states will emerge from this war so exhausted and so terrified that they will have no other object than to form some sort of condition that may in the future obviate the recurrence of any such catastrophe."

NOT DRUGS.

Food Did It.

After using laxative and cathartic medicines from childhood a case of chronic constipation yielded to the scientific food, Grape-Nuts, in a few days.

"From early childhood I suffered with terrible constipation that I had to use laxatives continuously going from one drug to another and suffering more or less all the time.

"A prominent physician whom I consulted told me the muscles of the digestive organs were weakened and could not perform their work without help of some kind, so I have tried at different times about every laxative and cathartic known, but found no help that was at all permanent. I had finally become discouraged and had given my case up as hopeless when I began to use the pre-digested food, Grape-Nuts.

"Although I had not expected this food to help my trouble, to my great surprise Grape-Nuts digested easily from the first and in a few days I was convinced that this was just what my system needed.

"The bowels performed their functions regularly and I am now completely and permanently cured of this awful trouble.

"Truly the power of scientific food must be unlimited." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Trial 10 days of Grape-Nuts, when regular food does not seem to sustain the body, works wonders. "There's a Reason."

NEW BREAD MATERIAL.

(Chicago Journal.)

Cottonseed meal, mixed with white flour, is said to add both nutriment and hygienic qualities to the resulting bread. Also, being comparatively cheap it offers a way to reduce the cost of living.

Thus does mankind broaden its food supply. A generation ago, tomatoes were called "love apples," and though used in some quarters, were generally held poisonous. Considerably farther back, artichokes were assumed superior to potatoes as a food root crop. Samuel Johnson's slur at oats as a gruel fed to horses in England, but to people in Scotland is familiar to all—and the use of oatmeal in England is elsewhere, is on the increase. It is quite in order that cottonseed meal should come next.

AN OVERBURDENED WIFE

If the work that women do and the pains they suffer could be measured in figures, what a terrible array they would present! Through girlhood, wifehood and motherhood woman tolls on, often suffering with backache, pains in side, headaches and nervousness which are tell-tale symptoms of organic derangements which Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—made from roots and herbs—can undoubtedly correct. Women who suffer should not give up hope until they have given it a trial.

BETTER ROAD BUILDING.

It is encouraging to those who want to see better roads in Kentucky to note that the number of applicants taking the examination at Frankfort for the position of county road engineer is larger than ever before.

Fifty of those who underwent the examination, it is stated, had previously taken a course in scientific road building at the State University. There are indications of a growing interest all over the State in the construction of better roads. Good engineering is now generally recognized as essential to good building.

Many of the roads in Kentucky are poorly located. Much of the work that is done in the way of road repair is not efficient. The engineer who gives good service to his county will more than earn his salary, and the county will save money by employing him.

With the services of an engineer available at all times, the highways can receive systematic attention, and that, above all things, is what they need. In the opening of new roads and the repairing and relocation of old ones it is important that the county should have the advice and co-operation of a competent engineer.

The counties also should avail themselves of the assistance which can be freely had from the State Good Roads Department at Frankfort. In cases where extensive improvements are to be made, bridges built, contracts to be solved, or problems of various kinds to be solved, the department should be consulted and its aid invoked. Increase in knowledge of road construction should bring better roads and should cause less money to be wasted in future on inefficient work.—Courier-Journal.

PUBLIC HEALTH IN INDIANA.

Health administration in Indiana has for a long time past been vigorous and energetic, as it is in many of our other States. It has also been unique, peculiarly up-to-date and popular in its methods of attracting attention and affording instruction. The latest activity of the health forces of the State is thoroughly characteristic. Governor Ralston has issued a proclamation designating Friday, October 2, 1914, as Disease Prevention Day. He urges the cities and towns throughout that State to make special arrangements for appropriate exercises, emphasizing the importance of public health, and joint responsibility of all citizens therefore in order to inspire in them a desire to cooperate in all same efforts for the prevention of physical diseases. The state board of health has prepared a special bulletin containing a copy of the governor's proclamation and suggestions for the celebration of Disease Prevention Day in the towns of Indiana. Some of these suggestions are terse and apt and deserve to be circulated, viz:

"The only good fly is the dead fly."

"Well kept alleys pay better dividends than well kept cemeteries."

"Public health is public wealth."

"Bat the rat and swat the fly."

"Don't take patent medicines."

"All the time is clean-up time."

"Dust, dirt, dampness, darkness, drink, will always kill."

"In September last," says a writer in the September Wide World Magazine

"I made a trip through the Yellowstone National Park, a veritable wonderland. One of the more striking features is a freak of Nature called the 'Fishpot.' This 'Fishpot' is a rock formation—probably of volcanic origin—shaped like an inverted cone, and several yards in circumference.

In the heart of the cone is a pool of boiling water, and as the 'Fishpot' is just at the edge of the Yellowstone Lake, with the waters of the lake partly surrounding it, those who are lucky with the rod may stand on the outer or rocky part of the lake, catch a fish in the cool waters of the lake, and without removing it from the hook, drop it into the 'Fishpot' and boil it."

PUBLIC SALE

If not sold privately previously, and considering the serious condition of my eyes, I will offer at Public Sale to the highest bidder on October 14th, 1914, at two o'clock, p. m., at the courthouse in Maysville, Ky., my farm, containing one hundred and fifty-two acres, two rods and twenty-six poles. It is situated on the Minerva and Dover turnpike, about one and a half miles from Fern Leaf. This farm has on it a residence of nine rooms and another house of five rooms, and the necessary outbuildings; also a splendid tobacco barn, eighty-four feet long, a stripping house and large ice house. It is well fenced, with woven wire fence, and well watered. It is all in grass but about fifteen acres, which is in corn. I have no hesitancy in stating that this is one of the best farms in that location of the county, all of the land is walnut, sugar tree and ash, grows a very fine quality of tobacco. There is also an abundance of locust timber and sufficient fruit. It is convenient to one of the best schools in the country, with four school wagons passing to convey the children to school; also several churches near, and is in a splendid neighborhood, which is very essential in seeking a location. The farm will be offered as a whole and in two tracts, as it can be divided and make two nice-size farms with a house on each. Possession given November 2nd, 1914, with the exception of the corn land, which will be when corn is cribbed. Terms of sale, one-third the purchase money November 3rd and the other two-thirds in one year, with a lien retained on the land and six per cent interest per annum deferred payments. If the purchaser prefers they can pay all cash. The is reserved to reject any and all bids not satisfactory.

Any one wishing to buy will please call at my rooms at the residence Mr. P. W. Wheeler, 221 West Second Street, Maysville, Ky.
